

This is it – the final chapter of competitive minor hockey. For many of you, this will be the last time you lace up in pursuit of a championship as a minor hockey player and that's why this year will be one focused on playing hard, playing for each other and making memories doing it.

My name is Brent Strachan, and I will be the head coach of the U18 White team this season. I am excited to lead a team defined by a high compete level, a relentless style of play, and a team-first mentality. We're looking for coachable players who are willing to grow within a system and who celebrate their teammates' success as much as their own.

I recognize that this is the graduating year for the 2009's – a big, busy, and at times stressful one. The coaching staff will be committed to making the rink a place that you look forward to coming to. A place where you can compete, laugh, encourage each other, and get away from any stresses. Hockey will be an outlet and a source of energy this year with a commitment of making great memories with teammates in the last year of Rams hockey.

I am excited to see everyone at the rink in the fall for tryouts, be ready to make the most of your final year of minor hockey. Come ready to work, ready to have fun, and look forward to being part of something special.

The tournaments are still being finalized and will be posted shortly.
